CORED GREENS TEST PLAYERS

With the greens having undergone their annual spring coring just several days prior it was tricky times for the 54 competitors in the BELL IMPERIAL CABINETS Stableford competition at The Bridge on the weekend. Required to be done each autumn and spring to prevent excessive compaction the aeration process causes a few bumps for a week or two until the bent grass gets back to its normal immaculate condition given good growing conditions.

There were plenty of hard luck stories heard told in the Sprig bar afterwards with putts deviating at right angles probably being a touch over the top in terms of believability! And the clubs unluckiest golfer Damo Moloney wasn't even there to throw in his two bobs worth. Thank goodness. Plenty of shots were apparently "left out there" by unlucky golfers but it was the same for everyone so come back and try again this week.

As it was just 38 points was enough to win the day with Michael Potts, Paul Harding and Jeff "Stuff" Hall each managing this score. Tony Carter chimed in with 37 points while Quent Maurice, Randall Cocks, Steve France and Gav Sanderson each racked up 36. "Spray" Lubcke, "Buckets" Jackson, Ash Fleming and the larger than life Graham Edwards all returned solid 35 point rounds while amazing 80 something year old Bill Mashado snared another voucher with his 34 point effort.

Despite all his bitching and moaning Randall Cocks won the Yabbie for his nice close strike on the 4th giving him a handy payday. Quent Maurice was on fire on the back nine with 24 points to easily win the Pro comp and he almost had a hole in one on the 11th having struck the base of the flag before staying out but at least giving him the NTP.

With the course greening up a shade after a bit more recent watering and a week
